

The temperature range for any compound is determined by the base polymer used. This chart depicts the maximum temperature range of each elastomer. The Temperature for a specific compound may not reach these maximum limits. Higher Temperatures may be considered if exposure is short term or intermittent.

